

Corona Virus – Update - Impact for our Table Tennis Club

We promised that we would keep our policies under review as we move forward following the relaxations of the corona virus restrictions.

In line with that, we are pleased to announce the following changes:

1. The general booking system will remain in place. So, if you want to guarantee a table for your own use for a session, please use the online booking system.
2. With immediate effect we will be introducing some group sessions where online booking will not be needed. These will be:-
 - a. Tuesday and Wednesday morning between 11am – 1pm, there will be general group social table tennis and refreshments (Bat & Chat if you prefer!). Just come along, play, chat, have a cup of tea/coffee, enjoy the friendship.

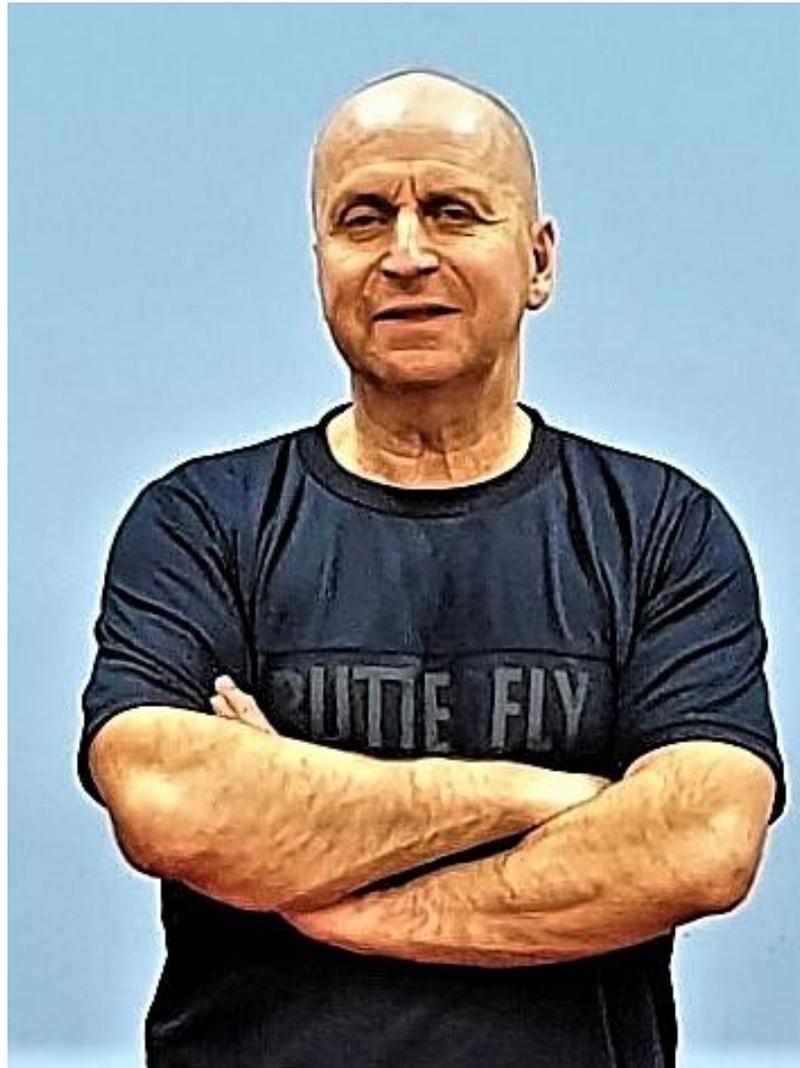

You can find more information about Bat & Chat here:

Bat and Chat— Table Tennis England

- b. Friday morning between 11am – 3pm, there will be adult coaching. This is aimed at non-league players or social players who want to start to improve their game. To reserve a place contact Ian Brownrigg or Jenny Givens (see contacts). There may be a small charge for these sessions which will be led by Keith Williams, one of our top first division players. A regular commitment to attend the sessions will be expected.

If you want to play table tennis at Marine outside of the bookable hours, this is also now possible if you have a key to access the premises.

Please remember to ensure the building is properly locked up and alarm set if you are the last person leaving at any time.

For more information on key access, please contact our property manager, Keith Hardman (see contacts).

We will continue to review all opening policies and, in the meantime, if you have any comments please pass them on to me, or any member of the management team.
